Aerospace Optics Promotes Two: Morgan and Davis Assume New Positions at Fort Worth Manufacturer

FORT WORTH, TX, August 21, 2002 – Aerospace Optics, Inc., a Fort Worth-based manufacturer of advanced cockpit lighting technologies, including lighted pushbutton switches and indicators, has announced the promotion of two senior management employees.

Craig Morgan, formerly sales manager, has been promoted to vice president of sales.

JM Davis, formerly finance manager, has been promoted to vice president of finance.

According to John Dillow, president of Aerospace Optics, Morgan and Davis are both long-time employees who have contributed significantly to the growth of the company, which designs, develops and manufactures lighted pushbutton switches and indicators for use in commercial and military aircraft, ground control, and marine applications

Morgan has been employed at Aerospace Optics for 17 years, and according to Dillow, he has been an integral part of achieving the company's success as a preferred supplier within the avionics marketplace. In his new role, he will manage both the internal and external sales teams and the marketing function for both the North American and international markets, both military and commercial.

Davis has been an employee at the company for 25 years. He is responsible for managing the accounting, information systems, materials management and human resource teams within the company.

Aerospace Optics, Inc. is an ISO 9001 Registered company. Products manufactured include the VIVISUN LED, the VIVISUN 5000, and the VIVISUN 95. The company's products meet a variety of military specifications and feature solid state circuitry and innovative electronics. More information is available on the company's web site at www.vivisun.com.
